Working with words | Talking about first impressions

- 1 When you want to know more about other companies or about colleagues and clients before you meet them, where do you normally start looking?
- 2 Read this text about online impressions. Which paragraph (1–3) is about ...?
 - a how companies need to make sure their website maintains a visitor's interest ____
 - b how people get their first impression of you or your business by going online first ____
 - c how people looking for work need to check their digital history before applying for a job ____

VIRTUAL IMPRESSIONS

- 1 These days creating a good impression is more than just shaking hands and presenting a well-designed business card when you first meet someone. That's because before you even attended a meeting with a prospective client or a potential employer, you can guarantee that they've already searched your name, checked to see if your company has a good reputation via online review sites and even searched your personal online history.
- 2 To manage your online profile, start with your company's website. According to researchers at the Missouri University of Science and Technology, it takes under three seconds for an online visitor to start to form an opinion of your brand from the website. The researchers also tracked eye movements and discovered that visitors tend to gain their first impressions from the logo, photographs, menus and, in particular, the opportunity to make contact via social media. In other words, projecting the right kind of online image is not just about looking good, but companies should also make sure their customers can interact with them and start building a relationship.
- 3 Individuals such as freelancers and job-seekers also need to think carefully about their social media image before posting photos and comments online. A recent survey of 450 employers showed that more than 40% had taken a dislike to a potential employee as soon as they'd checked the person's Facebook page. One typical reason for rejection was finding out that the information on the CV didn't match the applicant's online profile. It's a good idea for anyone who is self-employed or looking for a job to think about how they come across to people and to make sure their online profile promotes a positive and truthful image.

3 Underline the answers to questions 1–3 in the text.

TALKING POINT

The life overlap

These two Venn diagrams compare how the overlap between our working life and personal life can affect us. The first diagram highlights how frustrated we can become when we try to separate our personal life from our working life; there is very little overlap in the diagram and so this person is leading two separate lives which often leads to frustration. In contrast, the second Venn diagram shows a much larger overlap. This kind of person tends to be reconciled to the fact that their work is also part of their personal life; they don't change their character at work and in general they work on things that interest them and so aren't frustrated by their situation.

Discussion

- 1 Are you able to stop working when you leave your place of work or do you often continue dealing with work from home (or on your phone)?
- 2 How easy do you think it is to separate your work and non-work life?
- 3 How much do you agree with the solution of allowing your personal and business life to overlap?

Task

- 1 Draw two Venn diagram circles to represent your personal life and your working life. Include the amount of overlap between the two circles which represents the relationship between these lives. Then show your partner and explain why you drew the circles in this way.
- 2 Work with a partner and draw two new circles to represent 'You' and your 'Partner'. With your partner, talk about your life at work and outside work, and find out what you both have in common. Make notes in the Venn diagram circles about 'You' and your 'Partner' while you speak. When you find something in common, note it in the overlap between the two circles; e.g. you both work in the same area of business or you both play tennis. Try to find as many things in common as possible.
